Literary Organization Opens Spring Program

By Stuart Rochester

The Literary Society of Loyola began its semester program with papers by Rea Keech on Chaucer's "Canon's Yeoman's Tale" and by John Schap on Shakespeare's "King Lear." This organization seeks to promote an appreciation of literature through expression and criticism in an informal atmosphere.

During the first semester only three papers—all by upperclassmen—were presented before the Society. The recent response of underclassmen, and increased attendance at meetings has been encouraging.

Presently scheduled are papers by Denny Keating (March 24) and Fred Kiefer (April 1). Keating's topic, "King Lear as an Absurd Hero," considers the protagonist from an existentialist viewpoint that is concurrent with the present day enthusiasm for existential thought.

The LSL meets on alternate Wednesdays, and non-members are welcome to attend. Anyone seeking membership (of any major), with a 2.5 average in English courses and wishing to present a paper, should notify President Bernie Vondersmith or Mr. Voci.

Masque and Rapier Hold Spring Tryouts

By Fred Kiefer

Auditions for the Dramatic Society's Spring Production will be held next week, John Baesch, President of Masque and Rapier, announced today.

The tryouts will be held at 7 p.m. in Cohn Auditorium, Monday and Tuesday, March 22 and 23.

Tentative plans call for the production of "Look Homeward, Angel." The play will be presented April 30 and May 1.

Any student who is interested in participating in the production should attend one of these two tryouts.

Council Approves Bill Ratification Pending

By Bill Moeller

The Student Judiciary Board proposal was passed in the Student Council by a vote of 7-6 on Friday, March 12.

After three months of continuous debate, both sides had presented their final arguments the week before, when debate was closed.

Debate during this time centered around the functions and membership of the Board. The main functions causing contention were the power of the Board to study the possibility of an honor code for Loyola, and the assistance of the Dean of Men in the judicial aspects of his office. The membership of the Board was amended on the final day of debate.

The bill was introduced on December 11 by Bill Scholtes, senior activities representative, and was co-signed by seven other members of the Council, six of whom were seniors. During the entire debate twenty-two amendments were introduced; of these, twelve were approved.

The proposal in its final form invests the Board with the right to try a student, who will also come before the Faculty Committee on Discipline. If the Dean of Studies deems the case a matter of the utmost secrecy, the Board possibly may not be convened.

After the trial, the Board has the privilege of making a recommendation to the Faculty Committee; the Faculty Committee, however, is not bound by the recommendation.

All the seniors and both freshmen voted in favor of the bill, while the sophomores and juniors were opposed.

The bill now awaits the signature of Fr. Sellinger, which is needed to make it an ordinance.

Loyola Alumnus Given Award for Heroism

By John Kelly

Captain Edward Gunning, a 1955 graduate, has been awarded the Bronze Medal for Heroism in Vietnam.

Captain Gunning, on September 2, 1964, was engaged in combat against the Viet Cong. At this time his outfit suffered nine casualties. The Captain successfully directed their evacuation to a landing area while under constant Viet Cong fire.

The landing zone for the helicopters was also under direct fire. Captain Gunning exposed himself as he assisted in placing the wounded on the planes, and narrowly missed joining the casualty list.

While at Loyola, Captain Gunning received the Sun Paper Award for Leadership, Character, and Military Proficiency. He was also the only graduating R.O.T.C. officer to be accepted into the Regular Army.

Election Petitions Deadline Today

By John Sherwood

The deadline for filing petitions for the spring elections is 3 p.m. today.

These petitions will be reviewed next week and candidates approved after an interview with the Dean of Studies. A list of the eligible candidates will be posted on the Dean's Bulletin Board shortly thereafter.

The freshmen class will vote for their president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer and two representatives at large. The sophomores and juniors, rather than selecting representatives at large, will choose one from the science, social science, and business sections.

All of the students, with the exception of the seniors, will vote for the President of the Student Body who will preside over the Student Council during the 1965-66 academic year.

Campaigning for the elections will begin on Monday, March 29, and continue until the closing of the polls on election day, Friday, April 19. On that day the polls will be open from 9 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. in the Student Center.

In addition to voting for the officers, students will vote in several amendments to the Constitution of the Student Council. The text of these amendments will be made available to the students prior to the elections.

Editorial:Student Judiciary

Last Friday brought an end to the three months of political haggling by our Student Council concerning the Student Judiciary proposal. The bill, sponsored by a senior bloc and passed by the narrow margin of one vote, is the only piece of major legislation to come from the Council this year. We find three vital weaknesses in the proposal.

We believe the Student Judiciary Board as passed by the Council is not compatible with the interests of the majority of students. The proposal is vague and weak in its general statement of functions, especially in Section 1 where the procedures state that the Board will meet at the request of the Dean, and, under certain conditions, this request need not be made.

Again we believe that an ordinance setting up a Student Judiciary Board need not, and should not, include a provision for the consideration of an honor code, yet the Council has felt obligated to include this "rider" in the text of the bill, even after the student body has expressed its displeasure at the concept of an honor code.

We would also ask, what are the "judicial aspects" of the Dean of Men's office, as mentioned in Section 3, and how is the Board going to assist the Dean in carrying them out? If a Student Judiciary Board is to be formed, it should bear directly on judicial, not executive, matters.

The passage of the bill brings two very important questions to mind. The first question is, will Father Sellinger approve the plan? This seems highly unlikely since a faculty committee has reviewed the bill at the request of its sponsors, and this committee voted decisively against the proposal. The lack of a mandate by the faculty seriously damages the bill's chances of becoming an ordinance. For this we are thankful.

The second question that arises from the passage of the bill is, can the Student Council function effectively without a reapportionment? At the present time, a bloc vote of seniors can effectively monopolize the workings of the Council, and with the traditional senior "conservatism" that appears at Loyola each year, this fact is usually more a reality than a possibility.

A two-thirds majority, which is necessary for passage of many bills by the Council, can be attained with the exclusion of every class individually, except the senior class, whose six representatives, excluding the Council president, hold heavy sway over legislation.

This situation should and could be remedied by a fairly representative Council working with the cooperation of senior representatives who are willing to exhibit interest in the entire student body. We feel this is necessary if the needs of Loyola students, all Loyola students, are to be met.

Glee Club

In past years one of the major events in Loyola's social calendar was the Christmas Concert sponsored by the Glee Club. With the disappearance of this choral group two years ago, we lost both a popular and productive campus organization. A move is presently afoot to revive the Glee Club and all students are urged to consider this opportunity to become an active part of this effort.

GOP in '65, Minority ReportBy Richard Whitford
Richard Nortrup

Presently, there is a definite need for a real opposition party in our Federal system. A party which plays "shadow" to the party in power serves no worthwhile purpose and offers the voter no substantial choice between candidates and philosophy. The Republican Party fulfills these needs by offering alternative proposals to the programs of the Democratic Executive and Congress.

Policy scrutiny

The present aspects of our foreign and domestic policy deserve careful scrutiny. Though there may be some disagreement in form, there are essentially the Republican views: What was called "trigger-happiness" last fall, has now become an "appropriate response" to Viet Cong terrorism.

Congressional Republicans firmly back the President's program, since it is the one they have long advocated. President Johnson should not heed bleats of senators such as Wayne Morse (D., Ore.) and Frank Church (D., Id.), who seek some face-saving formula to cover a U.S. surrender.

UNITED NATIONS. The usefulness of the UN depends on the willingness of nations to pay their assessments. U.S. policy-makers must avoid back-stage negotiation to subvert the Charter, and instead should insist upon payment of dues or subsequent loss of voting rights.

Fiscally foolish

FISCAL POLICY. President Johnson's statement of the U.S. debt being "only" $5.2 billion more this year had the sound of a proud boast, rather than an admission of fiscal irresponsibility. Confidence in the dollar has been undermined by deficit spending and the gold drain.

Such is the Republican position for the 1960's.

Students: Winter of Their Discontent

By John Baesch

In the spring, a young college student's thoughts turn to . . . campus riots. Indeed, the 1964-65 school year may well be recorded in educational chronicles as the Year of the Demonstration.

The student riots at the Berkeley campus of the University of California last December have been the touchstone for campus protests all over the country. These demonstrations have highlighted perennial student grievances: lack of so-called academic freedom, censorship of the campus press, and general dissatisfaction with university policy.

Riot fever

Last week, riot fever broke out on a Catholic campus. The scene was St. John's University in Queens, New York, a school with an enrollment of 13,000 students. Last Monday, about 500 students gathered at the University's administration building to protest university policy on academic freedom, low faculty salaries, newspaper censorship, and the general attitude of the school's administration which tended to regard students as "recalcitrant children." The students also protested against the university's ban on political activity on campus and the refusal of the administration to permit "controversial" speakers to address the student body.

The student leader of the protest at St. John's is William Graves, an honor student and a philosophy major. He heads a student group called "Students United for Academic Freedom." A manifesto published by the group proclaimed that:

A new wave is sweeping the Catholic Church. Since the days of Pope John XXIII, very active attempts have been made to show the relevance of Christianity in this age. We regret that a reactionary paternalism at St. John's forces us to bring our difficulties out into the public, but we recognize a sacred obligation to the principles of truth, rational thought, and the Christian tradition.

Dirty linen

A faculty member, the Rev. Michael F. Mullen, Associate Professor of Theology, also addressed the student assembly. He cautioned them that the University's "dirty linen and garbage should not be thrown out into the City of New York" lest the value of a St. John's diploma be degraded. This, by the way, is a common plea that is often made to restless students. Father Mullen was shouted down and booed by the student assembly.

There are several lessons to be drawn from this winter of discontent and particularly from this most recent example of student unrest. First of all, these student demonstrations have made students throughout the country aware of the universality of their problems. The problems at Berkeley and St. John's are relevant not just to the "multiversity" but to almost every institution of higher learning; not just to secular or state universities but to Catholic and to private institutions as well.

Gradualism rejected

Secondly, these students, like civil rights leaders, feel that there is much more to be gained by "dragging out the dirty linen" than by gradualism (working through the so-called "ordinary channels" such as the Student Government) or by maintaining the image that "God's in His heaven; all's right with the world at my university."

The third lesson to be drawn is that, with the coming of spring, normally the traditional season for riots, there will be an increased incidence of student protests and demonstrations in colleges and universities throughout the United States. The winter of their discontent has not reached its end.

Freshman Year Presents Difficult Challenge

By Bill Weston

More than 1.5 million freshmen entered college last September. Thus began a struggle which inevitably leads to the end of many college careers before graduation. Loyola, for example, loses some 10-12% of its freshman class annually.

Growing Concern

The problem of college drop-outs is rapidly becoming one of growing concern to educators and college administrators throughout the country. New methods of admitting, screening, and testing do not seem to be able to counteract this situation. Why then are students who are considered college material unable to meet the competition of a modern college campus?

Educators differ as to the reasons for such a situation. Above all, it is evident that something is wrong on the college level.

Many educators are of the opinion--quite accurately--that the colleges themselves are too demanding and the professors too unsympathetic to freshman problems. This problem varies in degree from college to college; but it is, nevertheless, a major problem at all colleges and universities.

Reforms Essential

Reforms, however, must come from within the colleges themselves. These reforms should include a closer student-faculty relationship, a more realistic admitting process, and a clearer understanding of freshman problems, as well as more realistic college preparatory courses in high school. In whatever form it takes, some change is necessary.

Spring began arriving at Loyola College recently. To celebrate the Vernal Equinox, The 'Hound surveyed the situation. Spring at Loyola College was:

- Little gray squirrels digging up acorns they buried last fall.
- Jim Griffin receiving a mysterious autographed copy of "Franklin D. Roosevelt and the New Deal" by Arthur Schlesinger.
- Students gagging on cafe food.
- Dr. Pilapil receiving his draft notice from Gen. Franco.
- Students watching the flora and fauna in the library.
- A Hebrew National Salami being mailed to Pres. Nasser as a gift from the IGNIS staff.
- Mac's "bargain" prices.
- Father Conlin's boarding an Eastern Airlines 707 flight for Punxatawne, Pa.
- IGNIS's own 1898 model typewriter creaking away in their lavishly furnished catacomb.
- Father Scanlan's brain floating in formaldehyde.
- A 500 gallon barrel of green ink being delivered to Mr. Voci.

Dr. Vincent R. Pilapil of the History Department will be guest speaker on the Great Decisions topic "Vietnam--Is Victory Possible?" on Wednesday, March 24 at 8 p.m. over WBJC-FM.

Dr. Pilapil will give a twenty-five minute presentation, while the remainder of the hour-long program will be devoted to questions and discussion from a local Great Decisions group.

Faculty ALL-Stars Vie With Student Hoopsters

By John O'Shea

Coach Lefty Reitz will send his Faculty All-Stars against some of the better intramural hoopsters this Wednesday.

Slated to begin at 11 a. m., the game can be watched by anyone who donates twenty-five cents at the door, between the lobby of the Student Center and the gym. All proceeds will go to the Jesuit missions as part of Loyola's Lenten offering.

The Student All-Stars are made up of an equal number of veterans and newcomers. Paul Cashour, Tom Kane, Gene Lacy, Jack Lambdin, Buzzy Lucas and Dave Schroeder represent the senior class. The juniors on the squad include Paul DeBoy, Speedy Gomsak, Frank Phelan, Joel Rochester and Jack Sweeney.

Sophomores Mickey Gardner, Tom Kelly, Hugh Mohler and John White, and frosh Dave O'Brien and Dan Popera round out the team.

The veterans know that they will probably not be able to match skills with the deadly shooting and speed of the faculty. Coach Reitz will use sparingly

Senior Spotlight

By Dan Whalen

Appearing in the light this week is Bish Baker.

Bish is the senior captain of the wrestling team and a regular mid-fielder of the lacrosse team.

"L" President

In addition to these positions Bish was elected President of the Block 'L' Club last year and has done much to reactivate the club.

A graduate of St. Joe's High School, Bish has contributed his skill in both the 137 lb. and 123 lb. wrestling categories. His greatest contribution was in the latter class, which forced him to lose a great deal of weight in order to help out in the tough spots.

Despite the fact that he wrestled in a lower weight class than usual for one year, Bish proudly claims a 36-11 overall record.

In the post-season Mason-Dixon Tournaments, Bish has claimed both the bronze and silver medals in the tournament for 137 lb. class.

Lacrosse neophyte

Although he had wrestling experience in high school, Bish had never handled a lacrosse stick.

However, for the past three years and again this spring, he will be contributing his skills at midfield.

A well-rounded student Bish carries a solid average in his major courses in political science. A spirited student Bish actively contributes to the college esprit de corps both on campus and off campus.

Intramurals

By Mario Musotto

The senior Porky Pigs and the sophomore Harmon All-Stars have advanced to the final round of the intramural basketball tournament.

The Pigs extended their win streak with a 35-22 win over the Animals. After a tied first quarter, Buzzy Lucas found the range and hit on long jumpers which sent the Pigs on top for good.

The pressing, man to man defense of the Pigs was used effectively, as the Animal's high scoring guard, Jack Sweeney, was held to four points.

Buzzy Lucas was the game's high scorer with 13, followed by teammate Gene Lacy's 9. Spike Snyder and John Meredith each had 8 for the Animals.

The Harmon All-Stars had an easy time in defeating the previously unbeaten Celtics, 58-45.

Mickey Gardiner led the Stars with 23 points, followed by Huey Mohler with 13, and Teddy Ruchowitz with 12.

Dave O'Brien and Carroll Marshall kept the Celtics close most of the game with their long jump shots, but the rebound superiority of the Stars proved to be the important factor for their second half scoring thrust. O'Brien and Marshall both had 15, while Ed Nolley chipped in with 11.

The Flops beat the Far Tars in overtime 34-31.

Jack Lambdin with 13 and John Stricker with 12 paced the Flop attack. Paul DeBoy was the Far Tar high scorer with 12 points.

Swish Galvin and Nap Doherty, who played for him several years ago as students.

Eye Spiegel, Jazy Higgins, and Shot Conner will probably see much more action. Dunker Genovesi, Irrational McDermott and AC-DC Wolsey will also be called on frequently.

Napoleon Campbell, Kangaroo Colimore, Speedy McElroy and Dash Conlin complete the squad, although Lefty Reitz sometimes contributes timely foul shots as a player-coach.

The Student All-Stars normally oppose each other during intramural games. Hoping to learn to work as a unit, they are preparing for the faculty by frequent practices.

The Hound shooters fired in the annual NRA Sectional Tournament sponsored by Johns Hopkins on March 13. Pat Coleman of Loyola placed sixth in the top ten individuals, but Hopkins, Georgetown and Delaware defeated the team effort.

The Hound record has fallen to 1-1 in the Maryland ROTC Tournament and 5-6 overall. There are two matches remaining: April 2 and 3 against Morgan and St. Peter's.

Thinclads Due To Open Against Hopkins Apr. 3

By Al Koenig

The arrival of spring has brought with it a familiar flash of green hooded trackmen, grinding their way around Evergreen's athletic field. This year looks very promising for Coach McElroy's cindermen with a completely revamped distance team led by Pete McGraw. Crosscountry men, John Cosden, Pat and Mike Malloy, Tom Wehner and Tony Ecklund along with Dick Weiskopf and Steve Smith are supplying the much needed depth in the mile and two mile runs.

Junior Tony Virgilio has been taking charge of the sprinters. Working with Tony are Pete Smith, Fred Dumser, Joe Leonard, Joe Austin and Mike Behles.

Lew Schaffner, a strong contender in the hurdles, is back again this season supported by another promising Junior, Tom Huber and frosh hopeful, Tom Keech.

The field team, under the direction of team Captain Bill Morris, consists of Jim Creamer, pole vault and discus; John Meredith, Jack Broderick and Joe Colly, shot put and discus; Pete Ruane, triple jump and broad jump; and finally, Fred Dumser and Rich Morgan, high jump.

Bill Morris undoubtedly will be the biggest boost towards a winning season. Besides broad jumping and performing in the triple jump and potentially pole vaulting or high jumping, Bill will also resume his running attack in the 100 or 220 yard sprints and the quarter-mile relays.

Lacrosse Opens With Kenyon; Baseball Starts With Ithaca

By John White

A single question remains in the minds of Hound stickfans as the 1965 season draws near: What is Loyola going to do minus its All-American midfielder John Stewart?

Nobody knows, even though the entire team will be returning with the exception of Stewart and Tony Federico, lost to Uncle Sam.

Back to claim his goal-keeping post after sitting out a year to Federico is another All-American, Harry Bregel. He will be backed up by Freshman netminders Jack Curran and Nick Rockecharlie.

Judging from the team's first three scrimmages with the University of Maryland, the Maryland Lacrosse Club, and Navy, Coach Wenzel has not made up his mind who will start against Kenyon College in the opener next Thursday at Evergreen.

The close defense appears rather solid with Tim Martin, Bob Lister, and Bill McGuinness back.

On the crease Dan Hartman and freshman Kim Doyle are battling it out. Doyle, one of the best in prep ranks, hails from Dundalk.

Marty Stewart (known to a few as Super-Stu) has been giving John Skoglin and cousin Henry Stewart a run for their money on rear attack.

These three are being pressed hard by senior Bob Link. Bob, especially noted for his chatter on the field, is the granddaddy of the squad this year.

Four year sticker, lanky Lou Becker will do the honors on the crease. Backing up Lou will be Soccer star Dennis Palmer.

In the midfield will be captain Marty Pilachowski, Jack Palmer, and John White on one unit. Jim Norton, Steve Kohoskie, and Dave Lipp will comprise a second unit. And a third group will consist of Pat Monaghan, Dick McCallister, and Bish Baker.

Baseball season has rolled around again and the Hounds are busy readying for their March 28 opener against Ithaca College of New York.

Having lost three of four starting infielders Coach Lefty Reitz will be forced to juggle some of his remaining veterans. Junior Jack Sweeney, last year's high average man hitting at a .317 clip and a member of the second team All Mason-Dixon, will move from left to center replacing the graduated Ed Burchell.

Billy Heidel will move in from right field to third base where he will share the glove duties with either John Chell or Kenny Caldwell.

Senior Bob Rossi will be at second returning from a .299 year and a berth on the second team All Mason-Dixon. Bob should join Sweeney and Heidel in providing Greyhound power.

First base is up for grabs and should be hotly contested by Lance Hartley and Dick Oare. Mario Musotto who saw limited action at short last year and soph Tom Blair are battling for the starting nod at short.

The Hound mound staff looks impressive. Returning starter Howie Murray was also on the second team All Mason-Dixon and finished the season with an outstanding 0.60 ERA.

Veterans Gene Lacy and Jack Cuneo are also returning and this nucleus should be ably assisted by two frosh prospects. Dick Oppitz from Loyola High was an M.S.A. standout and big Chester Michalski has been tagged as a hard throwing right hander to watch.

Rounding out the squad will be Bill Robustelli and Ted Crammer sharing the catching duties and Spike Snyder, a returning veteran in left field.

The Hounds' early schedule promises to be tough. Included are the NCAA finalists from Maine University.
